

Dear Sir or Madam,

I am writing to recommend Debbie Fucoloro as a bright and innovative addition to your staff. I have known Debbie professionally for fifteen years as a member of the St. Francis of Assisi faculty, and then a member of the St. Clement of Rome faculty. I was a Learning Consultant at both schools .

Debbie embodies the term "life-long learner" in the very best sense. She is always informed of the most current best practices in education and incorporates these into her lessons. She is highly collaborative and her colleagues benefit from her vast knowledge. Personally, most of what I know in technology can be attributed to Debbie's ability to make technology accessible to people, regardless of their level of expertise. In the classroom, her knowledge of differentiated instruction, synthesis of knowledge gained, and varied assessment measures, encourages me to increase the scope of my knowledge and skills in these areas.

Debbie is thoughtful, able to work well with peers and administrators, and highly effective in her ability to share her knowledge with students and colleagues. I recommend, without hesitation, the addition of Debbie Fucoloro to your faculty.

Sincerely,
